Good Morning Mr. Mestecky,

I wanted to follow-up and see if you have heard back from the district physician and/or school officials as to the request for medical exemption for [REDACTED]. As we discussed the other day, I appreciate you allowing [REDACTED] to remain in school while the medical exemption is being reviewed, however, because we were not in contact until after the beginning of winter break, [REDACTED] was unaware that she was able to remain in school and she said all of her goodbyes. This was an extremely difficult day and it has taken a huge emotional toll on her. She has deteriorated over the break so her parents are hesitant to send her back to school until there has been a final determination by the school on the medical exemption.

Respectfully, the school has all of the information needed to make the determination. The medical exemption was prepared by a NYS licensed physician on the approved state form and indicates that the medical exemption should end once there has been a re-evaluation after treatment. Further, the medical exemption explicitly states that [REDACTED] is currently suffering from an acute moderate to severe illness which is a clear precaution to vaccination with the meningococcal vaccination, the only vaccination being required for [REDACTED] to return to school. I would appreciate if you could let me know the status of this request for medical exemption.

Thank you,

Jessica Wallace, Esq.
